Background:

At least one known proposal has been submitted by Howard Fuller, a private charter school operator who endorsed Betsy DeVos. Fuller runs Milwaukee Collegiate Academy, a city charter school that started as a private voucher school. In both 2011-12 and 2012-13, the school expelled 11% of its students. In 2013-14 it expelled 16% of its students. That's 5 times more expulsions than any other City-chartered school and 10 times more than Milwaukee Public Schools high schools. Milwaukee Collegiate Academy's suspension rate was 56% in 2011-12 and 42% in 2012-13, higher than any other City charter school or MPS high school.

North Division High School is a significant part of Milwaukee's heritage and should be treated as a vital pillar of the neighborhoods in 53206. Many notable African-American leaders graduated from North Division including Wisconsin's first African-American woman elected secretary of state, Vel Phillips and Congresswoman Gwen Moore.
